

Entering The World of Your Child (Communication)

Join us for a session for parents to understand their child better so that they are able to empower and guide them at their different developmental stages. Speaker will share ways of entering your child's world with love and compassion, to make yourself at the level that the child is able to relate and thus improving parent-child relationship.

It goes without saying that understanding between parents and children has always been hard to reach, typically when there is generation gap. The gap has caused parents and children over common arguments on taste, styles, principles and priorities etc. By entering the world of your child, parents are helping to open a world of opportunities for the child to make sense of life, along with enhanced parent-child relationship.
